The flu shot is always important. This year, it’s imperative.² The flu shot reduces the chance of older adults getting the flu and spreading it to others, while limiting severity and hospitalizations—especially in those with chronic health conditions.² A simple act, and it’s never been more selfless.

References: